"LEFTY" HARRINGTON IS HANDICAPPED BY INJURY TO HIS PITCHING WING

Big Baseball Suit Goes Over to Tomorrow

Owing to other business before the court, the big suit of the Baltimore Federal Leaguers against organized baseball, on the calendar for a hearing today in the District Supreme Court, was postponed until tomorrow. Both sides are prepared to begin action, and many of the leaders of the national game are in Washington. They include Garry Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission; Ban Johnson, president of the American League, and John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 24.-Bill Harrington, the big left-hander picked up by Joe Casey, self-appointed scout for the Griffmen, is likely to be the first candidate to be dropped from the 1919 squad. He has developed a sad kink in his southside wing, and Trainer Martin has been unable to do much with it. Pitchers with kinks in their arms are of no possible use to pennant-winning ball clubs and Harrington may be sent home unless he can do some work against the batsmen this week. However, if Harrington leaves the squad, it seems probable that Ed Flaherty, the big Washington right hander, will stick around a while before reporting to Frank Schulte's Binghamton Internationals. Flaherty has received a contract from Schulte, but Manager Griffith may decide to give him a trial. The big fellow has developed considerably since his last trial with the Washington club and may become a big Davey Robertson will probably be seen in a Washington uniform within a week. The Pittsburgh club is still holding up waivers on him. but Manager Griffith seems in a happy frame of mind whenever he discusses Robertson's chances of joining the Griffmen. Barney Dreyfuss is expected to waive claim to the former Giant within a day or so.

PLAYERS ANXIOUS FOR REAL GAMES. The players are anxious to begin real baseball and Manager Griffith will very likely arrange a practice skirmish by Friday or Saturday Today the pitchers warmed up and went against the batsmen. This kind of drilling becomes monotonous rapidly and the Old Fox will have to pick two teams to keep the players interested. The first team's infield will consist of Judge, first base: Shanks. second base; Davis, shortstop, and Foster, third base. The second team's infield will probably have Altrock, first base; Ellerby, second base; Brown, shortstop, and Leonard, third base.

Only four outfielders are here now, Rice, Shannon, and the two Milans, but Walter Johnson and "Lefty" Thompson are volunteers just for the fun of getting a chance at bat.
